On behalf of, and as instructed by our Client, we hereby make a request under the Act to be provided with the following information:

Please provide details of the current (as at today's date) average weekly rates and costs which privately funded care home residents are charged by the Council for each care home either owned and / or operated by the Council. When we refer to privately funded residents we are referring to those residents who are assessed as having capital above the upper limit of £27,250 (and excluding any entitlement to free care). Please provide the requested information on a per care home basis.

We do not have different rates for different care homes. In any SIC owned care home permanent residents with over £27,250 savings are charged £1198 per week. This excludes entitlement to Free Personal Care.

THE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION (SCOTLAND) ACT 2002

ARRANGEMENTS FOR APPEALS

The Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 (the Act) comes into force on 1st January 2005. In terms of the Act, a person who requests information from a Scottish public authority which holds it, is entitled to be given it by the authority. There are a very few exemptions.

The Act emphasises the obligation on public bodies to make information available to anyone who asks. It also recognises that there will be costs to public bodies, in respect of locating, retrieving and providing the information requested. The Act and its associated legislation permits the Council to make certain charges in respect of supplying the information requested.

The purpose of this leaflet is to set out:

- arrangements for appeals and complaints

Appeals and Complaints

If you are dissatisfied with the way in which the Council has dealt with your request for information, or with the charges connected with your request, then you may ask the authority to review its actions and decisions in relation to your request, by submitting a formal appeal.

Timescales for submitting an appeal

If your appeal is because the Council has not responded to your request, then your appeal must be submitted within forty working days of the expiry of the time allowed for the Council to comply with the request. The Council has twenty working days in which to respond to a request, counting from the day it received the request. This means that your appeal must be submitted within sixty working days, counting from the day the Council received your request.

If the Council has responded to your request, but the response you received was not satisfactory, then your appeal must be submitted within forty working days of the date of the reply you received from the Council.

If you were asked to pay a charge in connection with the request, and you are appealing against the amount, then your appeal must be submitted within forty working days of the date of the reply you received from the Council.

The Council will only consider late appeals, in unusual circumstances.

How to submit an appeal

If you wish to do this, then you must submit your appeal in writing, or in another permanent format such as a CD or an audio tape. You should state:

- your name and the address to which correspondence addressed to you, should be sent;
- the request for information to which the requirement for review relates; and
- why you are dissatisfied with the way in which the Council has dealt with your request for information.

Please send any appeal to:
